APPEAL TO PEKING

Threat Made Of Early Representations To Capital

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokyo, October 8.—Owing to the situation in the Chientao district North of Korea, the warship Hizen has been despatched to Gensan, where she arrived on the 6th.
Hung An-tu, the leader of the marauders, has organized a picked force of 150 men, apparently Koreans. A mixed force of 2,000 is preparing to attack Tatungkow, where the panic-stricken Chinese inhabitants are fleeing. The Chinese authorities are apparently inactive, despite having received warning. A Japanese detachment has arrived.
FOREIGN OFFICE VIEW
A Foreign Office communiqué states:
"The situation at Chientao became aggravated after the Korean independence movement in March of last year. The Koreans utilized the place as a base of operations, taking advantage of the slackness of the Chinese authorities.
"The marauders obtained arms from Siberia, and subsequently carried out constant raids, killing the Japanese police and law-abiding Koreans, and robbing and destroying property and buildings, including the Japanese Consulate-General at Chientao.
"The movement was well organized, the military school and barracks being included in it."
"Despite repeated representations from Japan to Peking, no action was taken until last month, when a Chinese expedition was despatched, whose lukewarmness permitted the marauders to follow their own pleasure, even to the extent of fraternizing with the Chinese troops.
"Events culminated in the attack in September against Hungchun. There came the second outrage against Hungchun by Koreans, Bolsheviks, Hungchunese and Chinese in military uniform who destroyed the consulates, murdering Japanese police, civilians, women, children and old people.
GAINING STRENGTH
"The apparent participation of Chinese soldiers will probably necessitate strong representations to Peking.
"The marauders are gaining strength, and menacing the Japanese consulates and Japanese and Korean residents in many towns, who are maintaining a stubborn resistance. Troops have already been sent.
"The despatch of troops was necessary for self-defence, and has been done in understanding with the Chinese Government. Owing to the increasing gravity of the situation, it may be necessary to send reinforcements after negotiations with Peking. Negotiations will take place in Peking with a view to Sino-Japanese military co-operation for the suppression of the Chientao marauders.
Tokyo, October 9.—A lengthy summary of the Korean border situation, issued from the Foreign Office states: "An increase in the number of Japanese troops may be necessitated by the rapid development of the threatening situation."
According to this statement, Peking has been repeatedly warned and repeatedly asked to furnish adequate protection to Japanese subjects, and has repeatedly disclaimed that there was danger, while refusing to permit Japanese police to operate effectively.
CHINESE ACCUSED
"When Commander Meno's forces were eventually despatched," proceeds the statement, "the Japanese expected adequate action, but the Chinese forces only augmented the ranks of the outlaws, and extended the area of the disturbances to districts not previously affected.
"Some of the Koreans and mounted bandits who attacked Hungchun

Fares On Chinese Railways Taxed For Famine Relief; Fund Here Passes $200,000

Send Subscriptions For Famine Relief To These Officials

Subscriptions and gifts to afford relief to the famine sufferers may be made to any of the four honorary treasurers who have been chosen to act for the famine relief organization formed here. These are:
Mr. Sung Han-chang, The Bank of China.
Mr. Fu Siao-en, The Commercial Bank of China.
Mr. William Morris, The British American Tobacco Company.
Mr. G. H. Stitt, The Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.
Donations of food and clothing also will be received at the headquarters of the relief association at No. 22 The Bund, the former German Club.

Schedule Of Charges Imposed Published; Big Donations In Shanghai

One of the important measures that has been adopted by the Chinese Government to swell the general fund being raised in aid of the millions of famine sufferers in the north is the tariff to be levied on railway tickets sold over Chinese Government railways, and in line with this purpose notification was issued yesterday by the Ministry of Communications giving the scale of charges to be made on tickets, freight and parcels for the famine fund.
The notification, published elsewhere in this issue as an advertisement, fixes the scale of charges to be made and says that "At the time of selling passenger tickets at all stations, a famine relief fund will be collected in addition to passenger fare irrespective of distances covered by the ticket."
For each first class ticket 20 cents, for each second class ticket 10 cents, for each third class ticket 5 cents.
CONDITIONS STATED
The particular notification referred to applies to the Tientsin-Pukow line, but it is understood that scales of charges are being fixed for all divisions of the Chinese Government railways. The charges, it is stated, will be imposed separately on each line over which a ticket holder travels. Besides the charges on passenger tickets, five percent of the total charges on each freight invoice will be collected for the famine fund and for each parcel ticket three percent of its total charges will be collected.
SUBSCRIPTIONS MOUNTING
Subscriptions to the Shanghai Relief Committee have mounted considerably in the past week, as is shown by a report of the Committee.
The report, issued yesterday for the week ending October 10, included a number of sizable subscriptions including one $25,000, from the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, another of $20,000 from Jardine Matheson and Company, three of $5,000 each from the Indo-China Steam Navigation Company, the North China Sugar Refining Company and the Two Cotton Spinning and Weaving Company and subscriptions from

GERMAN PLOT IS SEEN IN SILESIA

Sabotage Promoted To Put Lines Out Of Commission Say Investigators

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Oct. 9.—The Petit Parisien lifts the veil on the Pan-German plot which, it states, was behind the recent railwaymen's strike in Upper Silesia.
"To assure the success of the plans of the Pan-Germanists for provoking disorders at the time of the plebiscite," writes the journal, "it was a matter of prime necessity to secure control of the railways.
SABOTAGE SUSPECTED
"As many of the subordinate employees of the railways administration were either Poles or Polesophs and opposed to any strike movement, the Pan-German ringleaders' satellites among the railway personnel organized sabotage, with the result that what is happening today is that new employees, whose attitude during the plebiscite would conform to the wishes of the Pan-Germanists, are being brought in from Germany to replace the so-called undesirable.
MUSSELMAN GIVES FRANCE PLEDGE OF STEADFAST LOYALTY
(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Oct. 9.—General Lyautey has made his entry into Wezani, in Morocco, recently occupied by the French troops. The President General was received by the Sherief and representatives of the Israelite and Mussulman population. Sherief Mulay Tach in the course of an address paid a tribute to French civilization and affirmed the loyalty of his fellow Mussulmans to France.
General Lyautey afterwards inspected the military posts recently established by the French to ensure peace and order in the district.
SYRIA IMPROVING
Paris, October 10.—According to the latest news from Syria the work of organization, which France has undertaken there, is developing under the most favorable conditions.
The Mussulman population of the Hauran to the south of Damascus, has now submitted and the repairing of the railway has brought back prosperity to this favored agricultural district.
The economic situation is improving, the collaboration of the French with the Damascus Government having had excellent results.
The French newspapers report that the Nationalist defeats in Cilicia are becoming more pronounced and that discouragement seems to be gaining ground among Mustapha Kemal's troops.

Pig Iron Prices Drop 20 Percent

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, October 8.—Owing to the Government's timely measures to provide comparatively cheap fuel for industrial purposes, the prices of pig-iron and various steel products have dropped 20 percent.

NEW MEMBERS OF CONGRESS WILL BE ADDED BY CENSUS

(Reuter's Service)
Washington, Oct. 9.—A direct result of the census-taking during the last half century has been an increase in the size of the House of Representatives so as to prevent the loss of existing representation by any State.
If this is carried out in the case of the present census, California will be given five additional representatives; New York, Pennsylvania, and Michigan four; Illinois and Texas three; Massachusetts, New Jersey and North Carolina two; and Alabama, Arizona, Virginia, Maryland, Montana, Iowa, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Arkansas and Minnesota one each.
The final census figures show that the west and south will proportionally gain more politically than the east and middle-west.

Airship Service To U.S. From Europe Is Assured

(Reuter's Service)
London, Oct. 8.—It is stated on reliable authority that, following on the recent visit of the present of the Zeppelin Company to New York, the financing of an airship service between Europe and America is assured. The first two specially-built commercial Zeppelins will be ready for the Transatlantic flight early in the new year.
These airships are described as air liners capable of carrying 500 passengers. The initial fares are expected to range from £100 to £150, but later it is expected that they will be lowered to £60.
The Zeppelin Company is of opinion that on a big air liner with reasonable patronage, the fare should not much exceed the

IRISH GIVEN CENSURE ON MURDERS BY SINN FEINER

The O'Connor Don Is Relentless In His Criticism

SHAMED BY FRIEND

Leader Of Clan Says He Cannot Stand For Outrages

(Reuter's Service)
London, Oct. 9.—A striking letter by The O'Connor Don just published in the press is attracting some attention. He indignantly denounces the destruction of barracks and the killing of police and declares that the people of Ireland will be no nearer to self-government even if they kill all the police in the country.
He asserts that, although a Sinn Feiner, he will never have anything to do with the Sinn Fein party while such things are sanctioned. He is ready to follow any body of men, regardless of consequences, who will act sanely in the cause of true freedom, but at present, he says, he is a voice crying in the desert, and will be told that he is only jeopardising himself and his property.
LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS
He declares that it is time that moderate Sinn Feiners spoke out and cried out against the present senseless and despicable crimes that are now being committed through out the length and breadth of the land.
Mr. Lloyd George delivered at Carnarvon today a speech on the Irish problem which had been anticipated with widespread interest.
The Prime Minister declared at the outset that more had been done in the past 40 years to redress the evils of Ireland than had been done in any other period.
Dealing with the rights and wrongs of police reprisals, he pointed out that 109 policemen had been shot dead in the course of a year. They had endured this for two or three years, but their patience had given way, and there was no doubt that there had been some severe hitting back.
COMPAIRES WITH WAR
"In war," the Premier continued, "you do not have men standing up to be shot and never firing back. The murderous gang which now tyrannises Ireland must be broken up, and the Government must proceed with a measure for the complete self-government of the country."
Mr. Lloyd George protested vehemently against the doctrine that we must give Ireland more than Mr. Gladstone or Mr. Asquith was prepared to give, simply because a crime had been successful. "It was all very well to talk about Dominion Home Rule," he continued, "but Ireland demanded an absolutely independent republic, and even that would not satisfy the Irish.
"Ulster would not have a republic and if we gave Ireland complete Dominion Home Rule it would mean that she could have conscription. Then we in Great Britain, with an army of 100,000 might be confronted with an Irish army of 500,000 which would mean conscription here."
During the war, he said, Ireland was engaged in raising huge forces to stab Britain in the back. Had anyone ever proposed such lunacy as to allow Ireland, with her own army and navy and capacity for assisting our enemies, to obtain her independence? Dangerous weapons

WRANGEL MAKES GREAT ADVANCE AGAINST ENEMIES

Bolshevik Infantry Put To Rout And Thousand Prisoners Captured

(Reuter's Service)
London, October 8.—General Wrangel's latest communiqué reports the rout of two Bolshevik divisions and claims the capture of 1,000 prisoners. On the Simbirsk front it reports the capture of 2,000 prisoners, four train cars, guns and ammunition.
According to the communiqué, the appointment of a full board of seven members.
On the other hand the Amalgamated Textiles declares that all reputable firms anticipated the slump.
It prophesies that the slump will be of only short duration and that three months hence a prolonged trade boom will probably be seen.

WRANGEL DEMANDS ACCOUNTING FOR RUSSIAN INTERESTS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, October 9.—In connection with Reuter's telegram from Paris stating that M. de Giers on behalf of the South Russian Government had telegraphed to the Peking Government protesting against the latter's refusal to recognize the Russian Legation and Consulates in China, it was reported in Peking some days ago that the Ukraine had protested to China against the severance of official relations with Prince Koudacheff and the Russian Consular representatives in China.
According to a later report, General Wrangel protested to Peking on the grounds that Prince Koudacheff and the Russian Consuls were the recognized representatives of his Government and pointing out that in future China must duly account to the Wrangel Government for all Russian interests in China.
Peking, October 10.—A Government Mandate confirming the agreement regarding the Russo-Asiatic Bank, adding that the Chinese Government has taken over the authority of the former Russian Government in the Chinese Eastern Railway zone.
It instructs the Chiao-tung to co-operate with the local authorities to that end, while the local authorities are instructed to safeguard Russian lives and property.

RAISE WINE RATES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, Oct. 11.—The Chiao-tung suggests the levying, in aid of the famine funds, of surcharges of 10 cents on provincial telegrams, 20 on inter-provincial messages, and 30 cents on telegrams sent abroad.

U.S. MAY ABANDON PLAN TO TAKE OVER GERMAN SHIP LINES

(Reuter's Service)
Washington, October 6.—Admiral Benson, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, stated today that the Shipping Board has never formally sanctioned the agreement between the American Ship and Commerce Corporation and the Hamburg Amerika Line, involving American ships operating on the former German trade routes.
He stated that, while he personally endorsed the agreement, which he was convinced was in the best interests of the American shipping industry, the Board had not yet decided whether to accept it.

GERMAN CABLES AND ISLE OF YAP NATIONS' QUERIES

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, Oct. 9.—The Conference of Ambassadors, at its meeting yesterday morning, M. Jules Cambon presiding, decided to send a note to Germany refusing to prolong the period allowed for the dismantling of the German militia.
The note, which is dated the 1st inst., contends that the Soviet has flagrantly violated the conditions under which Great Britain is prepared to resume trade, and is still engaged in anti-British propaganda, while, moreover, its actions in the Caucasus, Persia, Central Asia and Afghanistan are openly directed against Great Britain.
The note insists on the release of all British prisoners without further delay, and concludes as follows:
DEMAND EVIDENCE
"We have given an undertaking to which we shall scrupulously adhere, that we shall not assist hostile action against the Soviet, but, unless by October 10 we have definite evidence that the conditions laid down as regards the release of prisoners are being complied with, we shall take whatever action we consider necessary to secure their release."
The reply of M. Krasin on behalf of the Soviet Government makes the customary charges that the British Government is still assisting the enemies of Russia, particularly Poland.
It points out that a number of Russians are still detained in Egypt, Persia and other places, and goes on to declare that the Soviet is ready to return all British prisoners still in Russia, and will offer its friendly services as regards the prisoners at Baku—seeing that it is unable to impose any instructions upon the Azerbaijan Government—on condition that the British Government renounces all Russian prisoners in territory under the control of the British Government.
TO REPATRIATE PRISONERS
London, October 7.—Reuter learns that the Soviet Government's reply to Lord Curzon's late note is not wholly satisfactory. It does not give an undertaking to abstain from propaganda. The Soviet agrees to repatriate all British prisoners in Russia in exchange for Russian prisoners in the hands of Great Britain, but claims that the British prisoners at Baku are outside its jurisdiction.
It declares willingness to send a representative to Tiflis to urge the Azerbaijan Government to release those prisoners and proposes that Great Britain should also send a representative to Tiflis.
The reply is not regarded as final and it is understood that a further British note will be despatched.

YORKSHIRE WOOL DEALERS ARE LOSERS BY TRADE OVERTURN

(Reuter's Service)
London, October 9.—The sudden cancellation on a large scale of Japanese and American orders has caused unprecedented loss in the Bradford district and a crisis has occurred in the Yorkshire wool trade.
On the other hand the Amalgamated Textiles declares that all reputable firms anticipated the slump.
It prophesies that the slump will be of only short duration and that three months hence a prolonged trade boom will probably be seen.

DR. C. T. WANG IN NANKING; TO GO TO PEKING SOON

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)
Nanking, October 11.—Dr. C. T. Wang, China's Delegate, at the Versailles Conference, arrived here today. He will speak at the City Y.M.C.A. under the auspices of the local Famine Relief Association at 4 o'clock this afternoon.
Dr. Wang will proceed to Peking on Thursday to assume his post as chairman of the Commission on the Study of the German Peace Treaty.

YORKSHIRE MINERS VOTE FOR STRIKE

(Reuter's Service)
London, October 7.—The Council of the Yorkshire Miners' Association today overwhelmingly recommended members of the association to vote against any datum line. This is a surprising development, as it had been confidently anticipated that Yorkshire would strongly support peace.
Mr. Robert Smillie, President of the Miners' Federation, in the course of a statement at Glasgow, advised miners to vote acceptance of the mine owners' offer as a temporary measure, and to settle down for three months, during which an agreement satisfying the miners might be reached.
Mr. Smillie's appeal is significant in view of the fact that so far eight important local miners' councils have recommended rejection of the owners' offer.
London, October 9.—The prospects with regard to the coal ballot on Monday next are considered brighter owing to the moderating influence of Mr. Smillie's appeal, which has been backed up by two other prominent leaders. The appeals seem to have caused a definite setback to the gaining influence of the extremists. It is declared that the pit-boys in Northumberland and Durham, where there are 212,000 miners will not be allowed to vote.

Great Exports From Britain Are Reported

(Reuter's Service)
London, October 8.—The Board of Trade return of Great Britain's overseas trade for September records another notable increase in exports and the lowest total of imports since last November.
The total exports for the month totalled £117,500,000, representing an increase of £51,000,000 as compared with the return for September 1919, while the imports amounted to £152,500,000, an increase of £4,000,000.
The exports of cotton yarns and manufactures registered an advance of nearly £20,000,000, and those of woolen and worsted yarns and manufactures £3,500,000, as compared with September of last year.

NEW FINANCIAL PROGRAM MADE AT CONFERENCE

Parley At Brussels Comes To End After Envoys Reach International Agreement

(Reuters Service)
Brussels, Oct. 9.—The International Financial Conference held its last meeting yesterday afternoon.

The Chairman in his final address expressed his thanks to his collaborators for their work on the Conference and to the Belgian Government for their hospitality. The proceedings closed with the adoption of the definitive text of the Report of the Conference.

Brussels, Oct. 8.—The reports of the four committees of the International Financial Conference, dealing with international trade, international credits, currency and exchange and public finance, have been presented to the Conference, which adopted them unanimously.

The reports overlap to a considerable extent, but the most important is that of the Currency and Exchange Committee. This declines to recommend the stabilization of the value of gold, and expressed doubt as to whether any such attempt could succeed.

It considers that neither an international currency nor an international unit of account would serve any useful purpose, and it regards any artificial control of exchange as futile.

The other reports strongly emphasize the necessity for all Governments restricting expenditure to the limits of revenue and imposing taxation to meet deficits. A plan has also been devised for enabling States to facilitate the obtaining of commercial credits by their nationals.

POLAND IS ASKING FOR U.S. SUPPLIES

(Reuters Service)
Washington, October 7. (Delayed).—Poland has sent a request to the United States for a supply of food to be sent to her. The appeal points out that the Bolsheviks have completely devastated an area of 40,000 square miles of Poland, and that the Polish harvest is poor.

London, October 7.—A Polish communiqué states that the Bolsheviks are retreating on the entire front.

Hostilities on the Lithuanian front from the East Prussian frontier to Minsk (Lithuania) have been ordered to cease in accordance with the proposals of the League of Nations.

London, October 9.—According to a Warsaw telegram to the Times, the Poles are exhibiting great indifference to the prospect of peace, which can be attributed, it is stated, to the belief that real peace with Soviet Russia is impossible and to the necessity of having to maintain an army in the field ready for action.

Peking Gives Terms Of Rail Line Loan

Funds Being Raised To Build Cho-Tze Part Of Peking Suaiyang Line

(Reuters Pacific Service)
Peking, October 9.—The terms of the short term loan for the construction of the Cho-Tze section of the Peking Suaiyang railway are as follows:

The amount of the loan is one million silver dollars. Repayment begins from the 1st instant and concludes on December 31 next. Interest on the bonds will begin from the date of payment of subscriptions and will be paid monthly until December 31 at the rate of 7½ percent per annum.

The period of the loan is one year, January to December, 1921. After December 31 next interest will be paid in half-yearly instalments, $90,000 will be paid monthly from the revenue of the Peking Suaiyang railway as security for the loan.

appeared in uniforms of Chinese soldiers.

"The Japanese Government, cannot pass in silence the evidence regarding the part played by Chinese soldiers. If this proves to be a conclusive fact, the Chinese Government will be increasingly responsible for the incident at Hungkuang, and the matter will be represented to Peking with the other problems which the incident has created."

The summary concludes by stating that Tokyo is now consulting Peking in regard to the repeated proposals and measures for completely reclaiming the territory surrounding Chientao from the hands of the bandits and malcontent Koreans.

Irish Given Censure On Murders By Sinn Feiner

like armies and navies were better under the control of the Imperial Parliament, and the Government would resist any attempt to give Ireland a separate army and navy.

BOMB ATTACK IN CORK

London, October 9.—A sensational bomb attack on an army lorry caused a panic in crowded streets at Cork yesterday. The lorry, which was carrying stores, guarded by six soldiers, was passing through a street, crowded with women going to work and children going to school, when a number of bombs were flung by civilians.

One bomb exploded in the center of the lorry, killing one soldier and dangerously wounding three others. Two other bombs exploded in the roadway causing casualties amongst civilians. The soldiers fired in the direction of the attackers and wounded one of them, whom the attacking party carried off in a motor-car which had been waiting.

Dublin and the whole of the south of Ireland is awaiting news of Lord Mayor McSweeney with extraordinary eagerness. Threats of widespread outbreaks in the event of his death are being circulated, especially amongst the police, who are being warned to resign.

MANY OFFICERS KILLED

London, October 8.—Viscount Grey in a further communication to the Westminster Gazette, replies to Mr. Asquith's letter, criticising his (Viscount Grey's) previous letter, making suggestions for the settlement of the Irish question.

Viscount Grey writes that the naval powers, which Mr. Asquith proposes to give Ireland are only the same on paper as those conceded to other Dominions and would be qualified in practice owing to the geographical position of Ireland.

He further states that he feels that Ireland can no longer be regarded as "a trust," adding: "It is a failure."

Viscount Grey considers that the best way to fulfil Great Britain's trust towards Ireland is to wind up the management of purely Irish affairs by Great Britain.

DECREASE IN CRIME

London, October 9.—While there was a slight decrease in the number of serious political crimes in Ireland during the week ended on the 5th inst., the attacks on the forces of the Crown increased them opened fire on the attackers, and the last pair also opened fire after finding cover.

Four of the party finally reached the barracks under a harassing fire the whole way. The bodies of the two who were killed were recovered later, but their rifles and accoutrements were missing.

London, October 8.—The Government is seriously considering the Irish railways problem, arising from the men's refusal for the past three months to handle troops, police and munitions.

The railways are still controlled by the State as in England and the withdrawal of the subsidy is declared possible, which would create an acute situation throughout the entire country.

ROADS CLOSED

Recently many important branch lines have been closed while yesterday a train from Londonderry was cancelled owing to the refusal of the firemen and the guard to work while six armed men occupied a compartment.

It is pointed out that this situation, in which the Government is not allowed to use the railways which it subsidises for its most vital purposes, cannot continue.

Community Must Take Precedence, Declares Premier

Use Common Sense, Is Advice Given Miners By Lloyd George

(Reuters Service)

London, October 8.—Mr. Lloyd George today addressed an audience of between four and five thousand persons at a meeting at Llandudno of the Welsh National Liberal Council. The Premier was given a magnificent reception.

In the course of a long speech, he defended the Coalition as the only possible form of Government. Mr. Lloyd George aroused his audience to enthusiasm when he picturesquely described himself as standing on the bridge of the ship of State, through much bad weather, which had bleached his hair.

NOT OUT OF DANGER

"We are not yet out of the danger zone," the Premier added. "There are still breakers on the horizon and I see gallant ships like Russia, dismantled in the trough of the waves. Don't send anyone down until the ship is safe. In spite of all misrepresentations and revivings, I will do my duty to the end, God helping me."

MINERS THREATEN

"Peace on earth and goodwill among men," he continued, was the demand of the hour and he did not know any principle which was in issue between the parties when they came to deal with it.

Referring to the threatened miners' strike, the Premier emphasised that he was resolved never to surrender the rights of the community to a minority which stood in the way of human progress.

equity for the men, who were contributing to the wealth of the nation. He was hopeful that common sense and reason would prevail at the forthcoming ballot.

Mr. Lloyd George predicted that Home Rule would be adopted by the Coalition. The Premier concluded with an appeal for unity until they had solved the problems, darkening the horizon, and the difficulties which stood in the way of human progress.

Vessel Resumes Trip To Trieste After Short Stay In Port

With 2,207 repatriated Hungarian and Austrian former prisoners on board, the steamer Scharhorst sailed for Trieste yesterday. The majority of the prisoners had been in Siberia for the last six years, according to Major Rosenbluth, local representative of the American Repatriation Committee, which has arranged for the repatriation of these men.

The steamer was anchored at the Lay Road Jetty before her departure. During her stay, several local organizations sent her supplies.

From American Red Cross: Twenty cases of toilet soap much desired by the men and of which they are almost lacking.

Four cases of matches.

From Navy Y.M.C.A.: Auto load of books, magazines and papers furnished by the Shanghai Public in answer to appeal.

10,000 sheets letter paper and 5,000 envelopes.

TRIBES YIELDING IN MESOPOTAMIA

Report Of London War Office Is Troops Are Moving Closer To Samawah

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

London, October 7.—A war office communique on the situation in Mesopotamia states: Our column moving on Samawah has reached Darraji Station, 28 miles from the town.

Reconnoitering aeroplanes observed all well; signals from the Kufa garrison but the Arabs are destroying the Kufa-Nediet line.

The rear-guard of the column which is marching on Sallab from Baghdad was attacked by insurgents near Mahmudiyah (19 miles south of Baghdad). The insurgents were dispersed by an armored train.

A further Mesopotamia communique, dealing with the tribal situation, reports the submission of a large number of tribes on the Middle Euphrates. Upper Euphrates in the Shatt el Adhaim district (50 miles north of Baghdad) and in South Kurdistan.

French And Germans Hold Up Negotiations

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 8.—According to a telegram, received here from Paris, official confirmation concerning the reported direct Franco-German negotiations with regard to reparations is not yet forthcoming.

An official communique declares that for the moment direct negotiations are confined to technical questions with regard to exports and imports and that no direct negotiations with respect to reparations are at present envisaged.

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 9.—President Wilson has given instructions that on Sunday, November 14, the American flag shall be half-masted on all public buildings and naval and military posts in token of the nation's participation in the memorial services for the heroic American soldiers, sailors, marines and others who gave their lives for their country in the world war.

Portuguese Strike Reports Enlarged

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

London, October 7.—The Portuguese Legation here states that reports of strikes in Portugal are exaggerated.

A telegram of yesterday's date from Portugal, received by the Legation, merely refers to a partial railway strike on the Companhia Portuguesa lines. The telegram says that the bulk of the employees are remaining at their posts, many trains are running, and order has not been disturbed.

Statement Is Issued On Hungchun Raid

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 10.—A mandate issued yesterday evening says that, according to a recent telegram from the Tsuchun of Kirin, upwards of 200 bandits raided Hungchun on the 3rd inst. damaging the foreign consulates and residences there. The Provincial authorities have been instructed to send military and police to restore order, to furnish full reports to the Government and also to secure full protection for foreigners.

Southern Tsuchuns Present Program For Unification

A definite program for the unification of China and the preservation of its national integrity was presented in a manifesto which has just reached here under the seal of the Military Government of Yunnan and Kweichow, General Tang Chi-yao and Liu Hsien-shih.

Generals Tang and Liu are first and second in command respectively of the United Constitutionalists' Army in the South.

The message follows:

"The Southwest has struggled to maintain the constitution for three years. Fighting has stopped, and peace discussed for more than two years. No solution has been found to the constitutional and Foreign political questions, and the Peace Conference has consequently come to a deadlock, the present political conditions have become more involved.

TO MAINTAIN AUTHORITY

"The maintenance of the constitutional authority and the rights of the country has been our steadfast endeavor, and the participation by the people of their rightful share in the Government our constant hope. Our objects, although clear as the sun and stars have not, owing to the play of circumstances, shown clearly, and discussion cannot serve to elucidate the differences of opinion.

"Judgments have been based on partial knowledge. Our basic idea of maintaining the constitution to save the country, should have been clear to the world, but it has been utilized by some individuals for their private ends. It is to be feared that the future condition of China will become worse without prospect of being retrieved.

THEIR HONEST VIEW

"In the hope of putting the matter clearly, we state our honest opinions and publish them abroad for the information of all.

"(a) Re-establishment of political conditions.

"(1) Peace between North and South should be duly settled by

"(2) The questions of the constitution and foreign relations which involve the integrity of the country should be finally settled.

TO MAINTAIN UNION

"(b) Reorganization of the form of Government to maintain the integrity of the country.

"(1) The office of Tsuchun, and all others having military territorial authority should be abolished. All officers commanding divisions and brigades should be under the direct authority of the Ministry of War, which should be charged with the duties of recruiting and defense.

"(2) The number of divisions should be determined in accordance with necessities of defense and financial exigencies. All other troops should be disbanded. Disbandment should be arranged by a special military committee.

WANT POPULAR RULE

"(3) Popular government. It is important that some measure of municipal government should be granted to the people even before powers of the executive authorities are settled, the reasons being to give added importance to the body of the people, provide a solid foundation on which to base popular government, and strengthen their power to take an independent line of action.

"The above are our considered opinions which we publish on behalf of our associates and friends.

"We pray that they will be shared by others. We disapprove of differences arising out of provincial and party distinctions."

Business And Welfare

BY DR. WM. A. MCKEEVER

(Professor in the University of Kansas and a well-known educator)

"Own a home and bring up happy children."

"It is easier to rear a good family in a home of your own."

"Home and school are two of the greatest assets of society. Secure the one and you help the other."

"In future your sons and daughters should be blessed with fond memories of the dear old home which was once yours and theirs in common possession. Why not begin today to own a home?"

"Come in and get acquainted and we will talk it all over together."

"The Such-and-Such Real Estate Company."

In Salt Lake City I have found a real estate firm which displays most artistically in the front window such matters as the foregoing. To the rear of these placards is a striking symbolic picture illuminated by artificial light and colored in crimson and gold. There is a figure of a brutal man labelled "Ignorance," aiming a crushing blow at a group of children, while between him and them stands a comely, determined young teacher, ready to shield and care for them. It is a symbol of spiritual force as overcoming brutal force, and was prepared with wonderful effectiveness on the occasion of the session of the National Education Association in the city.

However, I am not writing a description of this matter so much as an appreciation of a real estate concern which in a striking way, and doubtless helpful to the business, plays up common humanity above the dollar mark. Constantly this display window had its throng of visitors and admirers. And it was my pleasure to go in and shake hands with the proprietor, offering heartiest commendations of their business.

Now, Mr. Business Man, will you learn a lesson here? A mere real estate dealer by his display window makes you stop and think of home and children and family fellowship, and tearfully to reflect upon those "dear old days" material advantage over one another?

Try the real estate's scheme. Make your window a thing of beauty. Change it often. Make it suggest some of the goodness that lies deep in the ordinary human heart. Make it beg in the stranger a desire to know you personally. Make it appear that your business is measuring itself somehow in terms of human well-being. Make it speak, at least by indirection, of the love and comforts of home and of the joys and dwelling there as parent and guardian of happy children.

WORKMEN HURT BY BOLSHEVISM

Report Of Italians Shows
—Damage That Is Done
By Experiment

(Reuter's Service)
London, Oct. 8.—According to a Milan message, the report of the Italian Labor mission to Russia is an impressive and significant document, coming as it does from men who were originally on the side of the Revolutionists.

It severely criticises the Bolshevik regime, and declares that, although it may be true that the peasants are better off simply because Bolshevism in the countryside has been a failure, yet the workmen in the towns are worse off than they were before the revolution.

The cities, says the report, have fallen into a state of moral and material misery, and the Government is incapable of supplying even the minimum of indispensable necessities. Speculation is rampant, and all industrial and commercial organisation has been destroyed, while the bureaucracy has enormously increased.

It is useless to cherish any illusions as regards exports from Russia, because all transport is disorganised.

The Communists number only 80,000 out of a population of 80,000,000, but the former are masters of the political and economic regime. The capitalist regime has been destroyed, concludes the report, but nothing has been substituted for it.

Prizes Offered By Papers For Air Mail Fliers

Five newspapers along the route of the Transcontinental Air Mail, which opened Wednesday, September 8, have united in offering a prize of $1,000 for the three best mileage records made on any division between New York and San Francisco. Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General, announced today.

The donors are the New York Evening Post, Chicago Tribune, Omaha Bee, Salt Lake Tribune, and a Cleveland, San Francisco or Sacramento paper yet to be selected. The prize will be divided into three parts, $500 first, $300 second, and $200 third. The period of contest will be six months from the start of the service.

Details are being arranged by a committee representing the Contest Committee of the Aero Club of America, the Manufacturers Aircraft Association and the Aerial Mail Service. De Havilland 4's and Curtiss R 4's equipped with the Liberty engine, L. W. F.'s equipped with Isotta engines and the Junker all metal German monoplanes are to carry the mail. The flights west will be handicapped by strong opposing winds, but this disadvantage will be neutralised on the flight east. The prize announcement has greatly stimulated interest among pilots in the Transcontinental Air Mail Service, Mr. Praeger stated.

Wedding

DENEGRI-CHIRIELEISON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joseph's Church Saturday afternoon when Miss Francesca Denegri, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Denegri was married to Major Enzo Chirieleison of the Royal Italian Artillery, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Father le Corne.

The bride looked charming in a beautiful gown of ivory charmeuse, covered with net and silver lace and trimmed with pearls. The court train, which was borne by her nephew and niece Master and Miss Zanchi was of white charmeuse embroidered with silver. A true lover's knot was caught with sprays of orange blossoms at the end, while the veil of tulle was bound to her forehead by a crown of pearls. The bride was attended by her sister Mrs. B. A. Panfil, who acted as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids, Miss Emma Denegri and the Misses Kathleen and Una Thomas were charming in pale blue tulle frocks trimmed with gold net and black satin hats trimmed with blue chenille. Captain A. Monastero, Commander of the Italian Gunboat Sebastiano Saboto, acted as best man, while the ushers were Lieutenants Vanni Strani and Sitta. After the wedding reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where a large number of friends gathered to offer their congratulations. The presents were numerous and beautiful.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a diamond pendant and that of the bride to the bridegroom, a gold cigarette case. The bridesmaids wore gold and ivory bracelets, presents from the bridegroom. The honeymoon will be spent in Peking and Tientsin.

ZEE-WONG
A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of Our Saviour, Dixwell Road, on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Esther Yung Sung, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zee Vee Wei, of Shanghai, was married to Peter Tat Yan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wong Kok Shan, also of Shanghai.

The church, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion, was well filled by the attendance of friends and relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Pastor P. Y. Tsu, Rector of the church, officiated at the ceremony, while the boy choristers of the church sang suitable hymns during the service.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Z. N. H. Lee as best man. The bride entering on the arm of her father looked very charming in a gown of embroidered white silk, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaids were Misses M. T. Chen and Z. N. Wong, and both wore pretty dresses of light blue.

The reception was held afterwards at No. 36 Scott Road and the marriage feast took place in the same evening at the Great Eastern Hotel, where about 400 guests were present. Many beautiful presents were received from the relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom, and were exhibited at their home.

The happy couple left the same night for Nanking to spend their honeymoon.

Ungern Divorcing His Chinese Wife

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 10.—Baron Ungern has sent an aide-de-camp to Harbin to secure a divorce from his Chinese wife, who is described as the daughter of a Chinese official of royal blood. When it was contracted, the marriage was considered a step of diplomatic importance, owing to the efforts of Ataman Semenov to secure a rapprochement with China. Baron Ungern subsequently received the rank of a Mongolian Prince.

WHEN BABY'S TEETH ARE COMING THROUGH

Baby's Own Tablets Save Pain and Tears.

Teething time not only is a trying period to baby but also means much worry to mothers. The little one's gums become swollen and tender; he is cross; does not sleep well; is troubled with constipation, colic or diarrhoea and sometimes even convulsions seize him.

During this period nothing can equal the use of Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and make the teething so easy that the mother scarcely realizes baby is getting his teeth. "My experience has been that Baby's Own Tablets allay the fever caused by teething and give baby healthy sleep. My baby has always been healthy except for the fever and restlessness accompanying teething and an occasional cold, but the Tablets have proved so beneficial in these cases that I would not be without them," writes Mrs. R. S. Long, of Peachland, British Columbia.

These Tablets are equally healthful and harmless to the youngest infant and the child of eight years or more, curing constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, simple fever and worms.

They are to be had from chemists, also post free at 50 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Shipping Men Are In Court As Swindlers

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 6.—Victor S. Fox and William H. Kaiser, respectively treasurer and president of several steamship companies which took over a number of vessels from the Shipping Board, have been indicted on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Shipping Board by false accounts.

GEDDES SPEAKS

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 7 (delayed).—Sir Auckland Geddes, speaking at a dinner given by the United States Chamber of Commerce to the representatives of British Chambers of Commerce, declared that the adequate development of a world trade by Great Britain and the United States required both nations to lay their cards on the table. He emphasized the desire of Great Britain for closer business co-operation with America.

CONDUCTED BY DUDLEY BURROWS

CLEVELAND LEADS; TAKES TWO STRAIGHT GAMES FROM BROOKLYN

Wilson Repeats Victory Over Conqueror Dahlia In Kiangwan Cup Race

Medina-Sidonia Also Scores A Another Win Over The Jumps—
Heard Rides Four Winners—Fine Card Of Events
Enjoyed By Big Crowd

By "Grandstand"

Splendidly exciting and colorful was the seventieth race meet of the International Recreation Club, held in the presence of a large throng of horse-lovers at the picturesque Kiangwan track yesterday afternoon.

Good fields of speed-burning little China ponies went to the post in all save the tenth race, which only attracted four starters. Bad starts were few and the finishes, in most cases, were of the hair-raising order, with the big crowd on its toes, cheering madly, as the whizzing bangtails flashed past the finish line.

The particular feature of the day was the riding of Mr. A. J. P. Heard, who piloted no less than four winners during the course of the afternoon. It is regrettable that, in the eighth race, Mr. Heard should have found it necessary to indulge in a form of hard riding which will never be popular with true lovers of the "sport of kings."

In this race Mr. Heard had the mount on Messrs. Sky and Hickling's brown pony Halloween and came down the stretch neck and neck with young Mr. Dallas, who was riding Shenkoland. Mr. Dallas had the pole and Mr. Heard proceeded to bore in on him until the day entry was put squarely on the fence. It was unfortunate strategy, to say the least, in that it marred the high standard of sportsmanship maintained throughout the day.

Mr. Heard is not a rider who makes it a habit of indulging in such saddle methods and it was regrettable that they should be employed against Mr. Dallas, who is only just emerging from the apprentice class of gentlemen riders. (In making this criticism it might be well to add that "Grandstand" held no objection of any kind on the race and is consequently giving his disinterested opinion of the happening.)

WILSON WINS AGAIN

The feature event of the afternoon was the splendid race run by Messrs. Toeg and Gubbay's chestnut pony Wilson in the Republican Cup. This splendid speedster, again admirably piloted by Mr. Bremner, repeated his victory over Sir Paul Chatter's much-valued Conqueror Dahlia, which had previously run third behind Pennfield and Wellington in the second summer of the day.

Wilson has all the earmarks of a real thoroughbred. Like his namesake in the American White House, he has won his last two starts in masterly fashion. What is to happen at the November meeting is to be determined by the fates. Wilson had none too much the best of it at the start and made up a world of ground, nipping the Hongkong entry in the last furlong.

Mr. H. Herlofson's stalwart little timber-topper, Medina-Sidonia, repeated his pretty win of Saturday over Battle Ax and a good field of jumpers in the steeplechase, romping home much to the joy of a large gallery of admirers.

MANY REPEAT

No less than eight horses ran in two races each, Wellington being the most remarkable "come-back" of the meet. After running second in the second race of the afternoon, this free-running bay pony came back in the ninth and took the event from a high-class field. It was a very creditable performance.

The Amer (late The Bulbul) made a runaway race of the last event on the program. Mr. Dalgarne took his mount into the lead at the start of the mile-and-a-half scamper and, before the half-mile pole was reached, had a lead of ten lengths in front of the other three ponies.

The little grey increased this to twenty at the mile and eventually came home on three legs, with Tickfield far behind, five lengths ahead of Haruna.

The following are the detailed results of the meet:

1.—The Novice Race.—Value $400. 2nd pony $150. 3rd pony $100. For China Ponies. Classic Winners barred. Five furlongs.

Mr. Union's grey Side-way, (Yih) 145—1

BIG ENGLISH GOLF CRACKS PLAN BENEFIT

Foursome Of "Best In Britain" Will Play Exhibition To Help St. Dunstan's

BY ARE MITCHELL

There are to be some interesting golf matches soon, of an international character, in aid of St. Dunstan's. I have been asked to play with J. H. Taylor against Duncan and Brat, the first match to take place at Mid-Surrey. Tickets will be sold on behalf of St. Dunstan's.

It is not generally known that the Mid-Surrey club threw open their course to the services during the war; and did, too, a great deal of good in hospital cases who went out to Richmond to take the air.

There is bound to be a good turnout to see the match, which is in aid of a most deserving object.

A LONG HIATUS

It is many years since there was an international, and I think it a pity that it was stopped, for it gave the Open Championship a real opening, besides helping to steady the nerves of the younger players who were selected.

The selection committee would have a hard task now to choose a team at least for England as we seem to have a good many more likely golfers than Scotland.

There the professional appears to aim ultimately to go to America, where there is a great demand for teachers owing to the enormous development of the game in the States in the last few years.

NEED GREEN-KEEPERS

Greenkeepers, too, are badly wanted by the Americans who spare no expense to get their courses in first class order. Peter Lees, of Mid-Surrey, started the invasion at least so far as greenkeepers are concerned, but the Scots were early on the scene, and have gained a great deal of credit in helping along golf on the "other side."

Many tempting offers have been made to our Ex Champions to make their home in the United States, but so far none of them have accepted. It is reported, by the way, that Vardon and Ray may spend the whole of the Winter in America. Their original plan was to arrive back in the first week in November.

DR. O'HARA MEETS GRANT IN TENNIS TITLE MATCH ON S.C.C. COURTS TODAY

Washburn Replaces Williams On U. S. Davis Cup Team—American Players Cannot Come Here—Pott Still Suffering But Hopes To Play Saturday

By "Forehand"

Dr. W. G. O'Hara, the indefatigable medico-sportsman whose accomplishments in the worlds of cricket and tennis during his year's residence in Shanghai have gladdened the hearts of a devotee of outdoor athletics, will be seen in action on the tennis courts of the S. C. C. this afternoon, beginning at 3:45 o'clock, when he meets Mr. A. J. Grant in the final round of the S. C. C. singles championship for 1920.

The "burly bowler," as he has been designated by some of his many admirers among the cricket-goers, is after his first leg on the Ramsay Permanent Challenge Cup. Mr. Grant is equally anxious to have his name inscribed on the trophy as the S.C.C. winner for the season.

The match will be the best three in five sets and the members of the club have been advised that they and their friends will be welcome to witness the exhibition.

WASHBURN ON TEAM

New York, October 10.—Watson Washburn has been named to take the place of R. Morris Williams II. on the American Davis Cup tennis team which will leave Vancouver on November 10 for Australia, in an endeavor to lift the famous trophy.

CHAMPS NOT COMING

All hope of persuading the American team of Davis Cup tennis experts to return home from Australia by way of Shanghai seems to have gone a-glimmering, according to the following letter received from officials of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association by Mr. T. E. Doremus:

New York City, Sept. 10, 1920.
General Eastern Manager,
E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Shanghai, China.

Dear Sir—Your letter of August 5, has been referred to the Davis Cup Committee and members of the team. They very much appreciate your invitation and would gladly accept it if it were not for the fact that to do so would require them to take more time from their business than they can spare. You will realize the importance of this consideration when I say that Mr. Johnston for instance left home about May 15, to go to England and will not reach San Francisco until about the end of September. He will have to leave about the first of November for Australia and he will not return to the United States until well into March.

The Association has received a great many invitations for the team to play here and abroad and is obliged to take the position that

'RECS' PLAN BIG SEASON AT FOOTBALL

Enthusiastic Meeting Held; Sec'y Wade Lauded As Officer And Player

An interesting and largely attended sports meeting was held at the club-house of the Shanghai Recreation Club last evening, on the occasion of which the prizes won by "Recs" members during the past two seasons were presented to the lucky ones. The meeting was presided over by Mr. J. E. Lucas.

The primary purpose of the meeting, according to announcement, was to discuss the football situation for the coming season. This drew a large number of members and tentative plans for an unusually busy season were made.

The return of several strong players to Shanghai was hailed with acclaim.

The following appointments for the football season committee were made: Mr. T. S. D. Wade, league representative and football secretary; Mr. T. W. R. Wilson, captain; Mr. T. S. D. Wade, vice-captain; Messrs. W. T. Manley, A. J. Clark and C. Thomson.

A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. J. L. Wade for his splendid work as Hon. Secretary during the year.

ON THE COURTS

Among the prizes presented to "past performers" was the Samuel Greene Tennis Cup, again won by Mr. John L. Wade, honorary secretary, who now holds two legs on the trophy.

The Green Cup was presented to the Club by Mr. Samuel Greene of Hongkong, a former popular resident of Shanghai, who has made an enviable record for himself as an amateur athlete in the Crown Colony since he removed there.

The meeting was a huge success from every standpoint, and much activity on the part of S.R.C. athletes will undoubtedly result from the discussions which took place on this occasion.

Mr. Doremus got in touch with the U. S. tennis officials following an announcement in THE CHINA PRESS that the Americans might be available for a series of exhibition matches in Shanghai.

POTT STILL LAME

It is understood that Mr. W. S. A. ("Bill") Pott, St. John's tennis star, who is scheduled to meet Mr. J. Tanaka for the 1920 singles championship S.L.T.A., is still suffering from the injury to his knee received in the semi-final match with Mr. W. P. Roberts.

It is hoped, however, that Mr. Pott will be able to play the match on Saturday afternoon next, at the Shanghai Country Club, when some excellent sport is expected.

Ruth Beats Cobb As Run-Scorer

"Babe" Ruth, by scoring 154 runs during the season just ended, broke an American League record which had stood for nine years. Ty Cobb established it in 1911, when he scored 147 times.

The National League record is 196 runs, made by Hamilton of Philadelphia in 1894.

"Indians" Drub "Robins" After Latter Have Copped Two Out Of First Three

Coveleskie Again Stops National Leaguers, Who Use Five Pitchers Trying To Beat Him—Cleveland Now Favored To Win Championship

By Dudley Burrows

(Amplified from U. S. Naval Radio Despatch)

Cleveland, three games; Brooklyn, two. Here's a treat for the Shanghai baseball fans who are interested in the big World's Series now being played in the United States between the Cleveland (American) and Brooklyn (National) league teams.

Three games at once! Last Thursday's game in Brooklyn, about which we published such details as we had on Sunday morning, resulted in a win for the Robins, two runs to one. The details are still wandering the Pacific spaces.

On Friday the two teams opened in Cleveland, before an enormous throng, and Stanley Coveleskie, winner of the first game for the Indians, went back into the box, facing Mamaux, the ex-Pirate twirler. Again Coveleskie proved to be an enigma to the Brooklyn sluggers and walked off with another game, 5-1. Brooklyn used five twirlers before the game was ended.

On Saturday, with another capacity throng in attendance, Cleveland annexed the fifth game of the series by the overwhelming score of 8-3. The Indians made one less hit than the Robins—12 and 13, respectively—but smashed out their safeties at the proper time.

Cleveland has pulled a comeback stunt that will keep the fans gossiping for many a moon by winning three straight games, after the Brooklyn Robins had them two to one before the game at Cleveland last Friday.

The Indians romped home in the fourth game in very easy fashion, tramping over the pre-arranged form of the Robins by a score of five to one.

Coveleskie held the Robins safe all the way while Brooklyn asked five different pitchers to try their hand at stemming the avalanche of Cleveland hits but it is evident that they enjoyed very meager success.

The fifth game was also capped by the doughty Speakerles by the handy score of 8-3.

Cleveland squeezed eight runs out of twelve hits, while thirteen safe singles failed to net the Brooklyn Robins more than three.

The series now stands three games for Cleveland and two for Brooklyn.

The next game is likely to make a difference of a couple of thousand dollars apiece for the Cleveland Indians, and Shanghai baseball fans will anxiously await the report tomorrow.

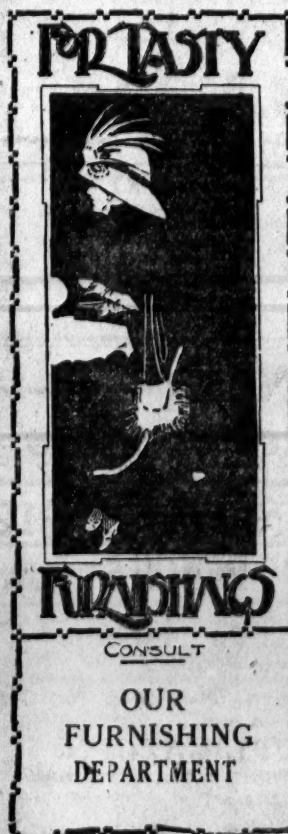

BALL PRIZES DISTRIBUTED.

The Gillette safety razors presented by Mr. Dodge, of Dodge and Seymour, to the winners of the Bolshevik-Regulars baseball series, have been distributed to the Regulars.

The razors are pocket-size, gold filled and greatly appreciated by the players. Mr. Dodge is to be congratulated for thus helping the game along.

SOVIETS' LABOR POLICY MAKES TOILERS SLAVES

Report Of League Bureau Shows Militarisation Idea Injures Works

HIGH WAGES A 'DELUSION' Inflated Incomes Fail To Keep Pace With Rapidly Mounting Costs

Washington, August 28.—The complete militarisation of labor, for fighting purposes at the battle front or for work in the fields to maintain the army, is the principle of the Bolshevik organization of labor, according to a preliminary study of employment conditions in Soviet Russia just completed by the international labor office of the League of Nations. In making public a synopsis of its study today the labor office said:

"A careful reading of the preliminary study issued by the international labor office forces one to the conclusion that liberty of labor in Russia is only a theory. Workers, no matter what their specialty may be, are subject at all times to draft by the government, for any kind of work which the government may desire to accomplish."

The initial labor legislation of the Soviet government, as set forth in the report, was apparently all that the workers might desire. According to the documents quoted in the report, however, the nationalization of 3,000 factories, or about 90 percent of the whole industrial productivity of Russia, beginning with a period of workers' control, followed by state control, was accompanied by a ruinous falling off of production.

WAGES OUTRAN BY CRISIS

Although wages grew beyond all measure and lost all relation to business expense and production, they could not keep pace with the cost of living. Continuing, the report says:

"For example, in June, 1918, it is estimated that the expenses of a workingman's family was 11.8 rubles a head and the wages 6 rubles a head, i. e., a deficit of 5.8 percent. From July, 1918, to April, 1919, the price of food increased 898 percent, while the wages of skilled workmen increased only 237 percent, of semi-skilled workmen 344 percent, and common laborers 450 percent. The average increase of the wages of a skilled metal worker was five times less than the increase of the cost of living. At the same time, owing to the tremendous decrease in the purchasing power of paper money, all sorts of schemes for the payment of wages in kind were attempted, the government even fixing rations for various classes of citizens. Men were reluctant to work and large numbers migrated to the country districts where food was more plentiful. According to the Soviet press, the number of workers employed in industry, exclusive of those on railways, decreased by 2,402,000 men up to January, 1919, while an extract from the report of the Supreme Council of Popular Economy of March, 1919, declared that production in the greater number of Russian industries had decreased from 400 to 500 percent.

OVERTIME RULE BROKE

"In 1917 the Russian labor code set forth two interesting and noteworthy exceptions to the rule governing overtime:

"All work necessary to prevent any danger or public disaster threatening the existence of the Soviet government or the lives of its citizens and

"For the proper carrying out of essential public works dealing with water supply, lighting, sewers, and transport and for any unexpected emergency affecting these services. On February 13, 1920, however, a wireless message which, appears to contain a general decision adopted by the supreme governing authority, read as follows: 'Sunday is declared a working day. Work in factories and workshops as well as in Soviet establishments is increased by two hours.' It would appear, therefore, that at this time the 8-hour day and the 48-hour week was a principle only.

"Article XVIII of the Russian constitution adopted July 10, 1918, by the Bolshevik government, proclaims the following principle: The Russian Socialist Soviet Republic considers it the duty of every citizen of the republic to work and to work well. 'He who does not work will not eat.' Here the state simply refuses to feed those who will not work.

LABOR BELONGS TO STATE

"Lately, however, the government has proclaimed a principle much more far-reaching, as follows: 'Work is a social obligation. The state has the right to oblige the citizen to work and even to punish him if he does not obey. Human labor is the property of the state. During the year 1918 the whole question of compulsory labor was not raised, but in the latter part of 1919 it was again taken up and pushed to extreme limits.

"It seems that the plan of action elaborated by the government contemplates two systems. The first consists of the utilization of all man-power in the country, which is divided into two categories, skilled and unskilled. They are utilized through a process of registration, mobilization and distribution. The second system consists in the transformation of the fighting army into a labor army. Trotsky is president of the commission to which the task of realizing this program is entrusted."

President Attends Opening Events In Competitions Between Airmen

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 10.—The Buc Aviation Meeting continued today before a large crowd of spectators, who had come from all parts of the country to see the French Aces.

Yesterday morning De Romanet, flying a Spad-Bleriot, beat Sadi Lecoq in a two-kilometre speed test but in the afternoon the winner of the Gordon Bennett Cup took his revenge, reaching a speed of nearly 294 kilometres per hour in his Nieuport machine.

This morning eight aerial transports left for England and Belgium.

Paris, Oct. 9.—The first day of the Buc aviation meeting was a triumph," writes the Petit Parisien.

 The President of the Republic was present, accompanied by the Ministers of Labor, Public Works, the Interior, and Marine, and other distinguished personages.
 M. Millerand inspected pilots and machines and conversed with the well-known Aces Fonck, Nungesser and Sadi Lecoq, winner of the Gordon Bennett Cup.

Ten Men Lose Lives On Canadian Ship

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 8.—It is now reported that ten workmen were killed by the explosion on board the Canadian tanker G. R. Crowe (act O. R. Crowe) at Brooklyn, whilst 20 were badly burned and rescued by firemen wearing gas-masks.

One man had a miraculous escape. He was blown over sixty feet by the force of the explosion and dropped on top of a shed uninjured.

Canada Wheat Crop Greatly Increased

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 8.—The Toronto correspondent of the Times states that Canada has never had a better year agriculturally. The wheat yield is estimated at 289,000,000 bushels as compared with 193,000,000 bushels last year.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

Forty years ago almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of what to your children unless you or it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

 "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
 Wm. J. McCRANN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.
 "I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
 F. DAVIS, M. D., Chicago, Ill.
 "I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

Health, Beauty And The Home

Canning for Thrift

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

LATE Summer and early Fall are the housekeeper's harvest time. Then it is that she begins to find tomatoes, beans, corn and all the pickle products at their zenith. It is true economy for her to do even a small amount of canning, and no one will deny the superior flavor and other desirable qualities of the jars with which she may fill her pantry shelves.

By this time surely there is scarcely a housekeeper who is not familiar with the simplest, easiest and most dependable way of canning—the famous cold-pack method. After years of testing this has become the Government standard and has been demonstrated by expert after expert and by thousands of women to be a success.

Let me suggest that any woman who wishes to practice canning this season, first of all send to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Farmers' Bulletin No. 339. This booklet is written by O. H. Benson, the man who developed and taught the cold-pack method in every section of the country with such wonderful success. It gives in plain simple English the details of cold-pack canning, details which every woman would like to know.

In all home canning, glass jars are preferable because they can be used year after year and because they are much easier to seal. Choose the type which has a glass top fastened by a spring. Do not use the old-time "Mason jar," nor another type where the lid is a metal composition material which can be used only once, because it is too expensive a jar.

Renew the rubbers each season. It is certainly worth a new rubber to insure the contents of the jar. If the slightest bit of air creeps in between the rubber and the jar the contents will spoil. It is the entrance of the bacteria from the air which often starts fermentation and spoiling. When this is not the case the contents have been properly sterilized and thus the fermentation will set up from within. In either case the results are disastrous.

Let the housekeeper get rid of the idea that canning is "such a lot of work." It is not any more work than making an elaborate dessert or doing embroidery or anything else which women do. For the woman in the smaller house it is not necessary to do such a quantity of canning at a time. One housekeeper known to the author never cans more than three or four jars at a time. She gets the fruit or vegetable when freshest, prepares it instantly and sets it to sterilizing while she is washing dishes or doing other household duties. By always keeping the jars clean and in a convenient place there is little trouble involved.

It may be said that owing to the high price of sugar and the high price of foods it is hardly worth while to go to the trouble of canning at home. However, it must be recalled that no sugar is used in the canning of any vegetable (with the exception possibly of corn), and hence the canning of vegetables will not be affected by the sugar situation.

To follow canning on a business basis it will be necessary to take the market at its lowest—that is, to study carefully the time when the crops are at their fullest or "peak" locally and buy at this lowest price. For example, there is a period of a week or ten days when tomatoes are more plentiful and cheaper than at any other time. One half-bushel basket bought then will total a large number of jars at a very low cost per jar.

There are many fruits, too, which need no sugar at all, but which may be canned with water—apples, sweet berries, certain peaches, etc. Also any fruit may be canned in clear water and the necessary sweetening added after the can is opened, and when, possibly, as we hope, the price of sugar will be down. Do not forget this point.

Further, if the housekeeper will take pains to not she will observe that to-day even the highest brands of commercially packed fruits are not put up with sugar, but with corn syrup or glucose. I recall opening a jar of fancy peaches and distinctly noting the peculiar quality of the syrup which glucose produces. The home canner likewise may use corn syrup with excellent results and with a great saving over the present high sugar cost.

And don't forget also that it would be a most excellent thing if we all made our "sweet tooth" a little less sweet. It is just habit to require our food so highly sweetened. An excess of sugar really destroys the natural fruit flavor and neutralizes the excellent results of the fruit salts. Why can we not eat a perfectly ripe peach with no sugar at all? Suppose it does seem a little "acid" and sharp. It is just this "sharpness" which supplies the excellent tonic quality that the system demands and should have.

Famous Beauties of Stage and Screen, No. 4—MARION DAVIES.
(Photograph by CAMPBELL STUDIOS.)

If canning seems "hard work" apply the principle of "team work" to it. Is possibly no other task in the home can we apply so much interest, and even fun and pleasure, as by having the canning shared by two or more persons. What may seem a long and tedious task becomes pleasant, social and stimulating when shared by two or more. It includes can find charm in following an embroidery pattern in the company of a half-dozen others, why not apply the same principle of group work to canning? This is the idea which was back of the old-fashioned "quilting bee" and numerous other tasks which were shared by a number of women. It is excellent in its psychology, this turning of work into play.

It has been followed out successfully in the various mother-daughter clubs, girls' canning clubs, etc., in the various States. Get up a canning party and invite your neighbors in! Of course, the greatest economy in canning is found where the product is grown by the "canner." When a ten-cent package of seed will yield fifty feet of beans, carrots, string beans, etc., and these fifty feet will yield about a dozen cans, it is not a difficult lesson in arithmetic to show how profitable the raising and canning of vegetables at home can be made.

Beauty's Clothes

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

WHEN selecting your wardrobe for the coming season I would like most of all to have you think more about your individuality than about the passing fashions. My advice is quite disinterested when I tell you that while choosing your hats and wraps, your gowns and gloves, you must try to be as self-centered as possible.

Self-centeredness is excusable when one is shopping. And it is truly in the direction of economy, for if we think steadily of ourselves we will not purchase a garment in which another woman would look adorable, but ourselves ridiculous. Nor would we order a gown that will prove so unbefitting that we will be obliged to give it away after once or twice wearing it.

Keep in mind, after your own individuality, certain art principles that apply to dress. This is a good one as to color. "Dress up to your eyes, your hair or your complexion." Permit me to explain. If a girl has brown eyes she may not always wear brown gowns. But she can be exceedingly careful to wear no tint that will make her creamy skin look sallow. For her, it is obvious that creamy shades will be vastly becoming, because they harmonize with her complexion.

If a girl has red hair she will be wise if she wears shades, regarded less of the popular tint of the moment, that will throw the hair into relief—as blue, green or black. If a woman has rich eyes—that fascinating mixture of blue and gray that holds in its depths much of infant innocence, yet much of worldly wisdom, deep eyes that attract because they are inscrutable—she will look her best in gowns that match her eyes, the same indeterminate blue and gray.

Think of yourself steadily and not tenderly in the selection of all your gowns. If you are thin and active, soft materials, as chiffons, crepe de chine, light weight silks, pongees and the like will be becoming. If you are of heavier build, heavier silks and broadcloths are more expressive of your personality and so more becoming.

Do not forget that the dividing line between the skirt and the bodice is ugly. If you cannot have a one-piece dress then hide the dividing line by a girle. If you are inclined to be stout, let the girle be of the same shade and material as the gown. If you are slender then you may safely wear a girle of a more striking hue and of different shade than your gown.

Artists have long recognized the beauty of the straight line, and it is well for you to keep this fact in mind in selecting your clothes. Parallel lines running lengthwise are the best lines of beauty in a dress because they consistently follow those of the figure.

For this reason a gown whose pronounced lines are from the shoulder, the drapey curving only slightly at the waist, gives the utmost grace and beauty to the figure. Trimmings that run around the figure always lack beauty, and if of contrasting material they have a thoroughly ludicrous effect.

I am very partial to the high girle because it gives a semblance of greater length to the limbs. Naturally, however, the girle, if not of the same color and material, should not be of too glaringly the opposite except when a pronounced color contrast is sought.

Remember that stiff effects are always inartistic, so avoid the appearance of being trussed up, as a fowl in the oven, or a soldier on parade. For this reason, too, I would always shun the too-tight sleeve, skirts or gloves that fashion sometimes tries to make us all adopt. A skirt that is too short and narrow is almost sure to make you feel an awkward one.

It is one of the small moieties of the season's styles that we are now permitted the wearing of the loose gloves. Loose, comfortable gloves give greater ease to the hands and are far more graceful than the tight ones that give the hand the appearance of being stuffed into the hat, of course, is the era of all careful dressing, but if proper care is exercised to find a becoming shape and one that is very simply trimmed, even this difficulty can be easily overcome. (When selecting your hat a bit of brilliant color may be introduced, either in the flowers or the riband trimmings, but let it not be directly above the face, for it will give to the face the illusion of being pale, whether it is or not.)

GERMANS COMBINE TO FIGHT STRIKES

Employers' Association Is Building Up A Big Defense Fund

NEWS PACT IS ASSAILED

French Agency To Send Reports To Occupied Territory Via Wolff Bureau

New York, August 29.—Following the federation of the various German employers' societies into the Association of German Employers' Societies, details of which were made public some months ago, the leaders of the central organization have taken steps to combine the anti-strike funds of the different sections of the association into one big pool, under the name "German Strike Defense," according to a report sent out by the semi-official Wolff Telegraph Bureau. The report says that a great many of the more important employers' societies and strike indemnity companies have hastened to join the new central body and that it has been placed upon a sound financial footing, with a large reserve fund already established. The full name of the organization shows that membership is limited to employers' societies affiliated with the central association.

Publication by the Suddeten-Monatshefte of the details of an arrangement recently completed between the Havas News Agency of Paris and the Wolff Telegraph Bureau of Berlin, under which the former agency is to supply the German news association with 600 words of news daily to be relayed to the German press in the Palatinate and 1,000 words for the other parts of the occupied territory, has aroused much bitter comment in the conservative German press to the effect that this compact is a disgrace to the German news agency and is calculated to further French sentiment among the inhabitants of the occupied territory, has aroused Bureau, in a statement given out early this month, explains that all the news relayed from the Havas Agency is plainly labeled, so that there can be no doubt as to its origin, and it asserts, furthermore, that if it had declined to enter into this agreement it might have been forced to close up all of its branches in the occupied territory.

Despite the drop in the exchange value of the mark to approximately 3 cents, the German iron and steel manufacturers have followed up their reduction in domestic prices of June 1 with another cut of from 25 to 175 marks per metric ton on August 1, making the price of pig metal 2,140 marks, of bars 2,840 and of the finest sheet metal 4,195. These rates are to continue until October 1. The extra charge for Siemens-Martin quality has been reduced from 125 to 65 marks per ton. The hard coal companies have not been allowed to put into effect the 20-mark rise in prices they had planned for, and the German Government, at a conference with the mine owners held the last week of July, brought about a reduction of from 12 to 15 percent in the rates for brown coal, through an extension of state credits to the companies for the work of increasing production.

The increase in the number of unemployed receiving support from the Government has brought the figures up to about those of last March, says a report given out by the German Ministry of Labor on August 2. Of the 357,143 persons idle on July 15, 94,154 were women. The number of dependents receiving State aid was 328,997. The low mark in unemployment was reached on June 1, when 270,000 were reported out of work.

Through an excess of deposits over withdrawals of 1,100,000,000 marks in May and 1,600,000,000 in June, the German savings banks have more than recovered from the heavy excess of withdrawals registered during the first quarter of the current year, reports the Sparkasse. The total excess of deposits over withdrawals for the first half of the year was 2,300,000,000, against 3,400,000,000 marks for the same period last year. German business papers insist that the increase in saving bank deposits does not mean that the masses of the people are prosperous, but signifies that many business men are putting their surplus cash in savings banks because they see no good business opportunities open at present.

Beginning October 1 the Bavarian breweries will resume the production of beer with an alcoholic content of 8 percent, according to a statement made on August 5 by the Bavarian Minister of Agriculture, following his return from a meeting in Berlin, where the general food situation of the nation had been discussed and certain plans for the future agreed upon between the national and State authorities. He also said that the daily bread ration was to be raised from 200 grams to 300 grams per capita, and that the State control of the egg market was to be dropped in October.

Following a declaration by Andres Hermes, Minister of Agriculture and Food Supply, to the effect that he would resign unless something was done to reduce the high price of meat, the Fifth Committee of the Reichstag voted on August 5 for a proposition calculated to cut the price about 1-1.5 marks per pound. The cut was supported by the socialists, and the Centerists from the industrial districts, and was carried by a vote of 15 to 13.

At the closing session of the convention of German students held in Göttingen a resolution was passed calling for the refusal of the platforms of all German colleges to Professor Nicolai, the famous medical man and pacifist, presumably because of his anti-war attitude and his criticism of German militarism. It was also decided that consideration was to be accorded to students from the Scandinavian countries and Holland, but that German colleges should be barred to students from Soviet Russia and other Eastern countries. Whether the resolutions will have much weight with the German educational authorities remains to be seen.

The breeze on the roof of the World affects the fur of the Tibetan Fox. The result is long heavy lustrous fur. The locality here in some places more than 15,000 feet above the level of the sea, produces fox coats of long dense downy fur and over-hair of exquisite fineness and beauty, and in instances of great value. Only the prime skins are selected for you and no skin is sent out less than 45 inches in length, pelt and tail. You can have one of these Tibetan Fox skins by sending a Chinese Post Office Money order for $25 to MR. ELLY WIDLER, T. A. French Orient Envoys Received By Premier

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 9.—The Franco-Orient Committee, headed by the deputy M. Charles Leboucq, was received by the Premier, M. Georges Leygues, who is honorary president of the Group. The committeemen expressed to the Premier their pride and deep satisfaction at the thought that it was their honorary president who had been entrusted with the task of watching over French interests in the East—interests which their association ceaselessly defends.

TO THE JEWISH RESIDENTS OF SHANGHAI

The Census Committee representing the Jewish organisations, KADIMAH, BENEVOLENT SOCIETY, OHEIL MOISHE SYNAGOGUE and THE INFORMATION BUREAU, beg to make following announcement:

"For the purposes of developing Jewish communal interests and of keeping in touch with the Jewish population, the above committee has decided to take in the month of October on Tuesday 12th, Wednesday 13th, Thursday 14th, Friday 15th, and Saturday a census of all Jewish residents who are identified with any of the above-mentioned organisations. As the number is very limited, it is urgently requested, in order to facilitate this movement, that all those who are not so identified will kindly send in their names and addresses to the Chairman of the above Committee, Mr. R. S. Pollak, 6, Kiukiang Road, Tel. C. 1442.

By Order

Notification No. 296

FAMINE RELIEF FUND (144/1)

The public is hereby informed that, by order of the Ministry of Communications, the following measures will be adopted on this line on and after 11th October, 1920.

(1) At the time of selling passenger tickets at all stations, a FAMINE RELIEF FUND will be collected in addition to passenger fare irrespective of distances covered by the ticket, namely:

- (a) For each first class ticket $0.20
(b) " " second " " $0.10
(c) " " third " " 5 copper cents

(2) For through passenger tickets, the above fund will be collected in accordance with the number of lines by which the holders travel, i.e. for every line the above amount corresponding to its class will be collected in addition to the passenger fare.

(3) For each freight invoice, 5% of its total charges will be collected in addition for the above fund.

(4) For each parcel ticket, 3% of its total charges will be collected in addition for the above fund.

(5) The above additional fund will be collected by station masters of all stations at the time of selling tickets or issuing goods or parcel invoice, as the case may be, and the amount so collected shall be entered on the freight invoice. In the case of "To Pay Accounts" for which the freight is not collected by the station masters, such fund shall be collected by the Accounts Department at the time of collecting the respective freight whereupon receipts are to be issued.

(6) For military transportation, transportation of railway material for home and other lines and for free or reduced rate benevolent transportations, no famine relief fund will be collected.

(7) The above named amounts are to be paid in big dollars, payment made in small silver coins will be charged 2 copper cents extra for every ten-cent piece.

(sd) S. C. SHU,
Managing Director.

ALSACE TO RETAIN PECULIAR TONGUE

Combination of French And German To Continue As The Language Of Province

Paris, August 28.—One of the greatest of France's reconstruction problems is to determine just what encouragement is to be given to the use of the peculiar half-French half-German dialect of the Alsations.

After long study of the conditions in the restored province, and after questioning thousands of peasants and townfolk, a recommendation has been made to the French Government urging that no effort be made to prohibit the teaching of German in the schools of Alsace, but that greater effort be made to teach the people the beauties of the French tongue and literature, at the same time recognising the dialect of Alsace as the language of a people which has shown heroic fidelity to France.

SAVE THE PHRASINGS

This scheme of maintaining the Alsatian phrasings, undoubtedly the logical product of enforced bilingualism, has been strengthened by M. Eugene Gerber, who at Dambach has inaugurated an open air theater, in which only plays will be produced in the Alsatian tongue. But this effort, while meeting with popular appreciation, is not destined to have great effect, as it is recognized that the dialect, although convenient for folklore and the daily speech of family life, does not lend itself readily to literature.

The educational problem is exceedingly complex. Few of the Alsatian teachers were able to instruct in French; those who had had any previous training in French schools were only able to teach imperfectly. Moreover, a large percentage of the Alsatian children at the conclusion of the war had already commenced their studies in German.

WILL TEACH FRENCH

In order to bridge this difficulty it has been decided to commence the teaching of French as soon as the pupils enter the schools. German will not appear in the curriculum until the fourth year, when, thanks to the similarity of the dialect and the German vocabulary, rapid progress may be attained in both the national and provincial tongues.

In short, the French have realized that it is unwise to expect the patriotic citizens of Alsace to give up a speech which meets with all the conditions of life so close to the Rhine, and which, even in the seventeenth century, was more extensively used than either French or German.

If after the Prussian victory of 1871 the Germans had not made the use of German compulsory to the exclusion of French the dialect might gradually have disappeared; but such a solution is now impossible.

The dialect of the Alsatian homes formed an easy method of bewildering the German masters of Alsace during forty-five years, and, to use the words of one French educator, "when fifty years hence an Alsatian grandfather is asked to tell the story of France's recovery of her cherished possessions it will be told in the speech of Alsace, for it is in dialect that the Alsatian heart speaks."

Inherits A Million But Sticks To $30 A Month Job

David Nicoll Canf., thirty-seven years old and a bachelor, who, despite the fact that he has just received word that he shares in the $2,000,000 estate left by his father in Scotland, continued at his job as hired man on a farm near Boylston, Mass. And his job pays the princely sum of $30 a month.

David avers that it would not be right to quit his boss in the midst of the haying season, so he will stick to the job until his boss gives him leave. David's father, who was a wholesale liquor dealer, died seven years ago, and from that date his family has been trying to locate him.

If you use Kolynos Tooth Paste

daily—it is impossible for your teeth to collect "so-called" film or your mouth to become over-acid. We claim no "secret process" with Kolynos. What we do claim is that your teeth under the care of Kolynos will become CLEAN—Just as clean as an ivory knife handle.

WHITE—Just as white as Nature intended them to be. We use no bleaching chemicals.

FREE FROM DECAY—Because a clean tooth does not decay.

Do not be led away by tooth pastes which advertise themselves as "bleachers" or "solvents." Teeth can only be cleaned in the old-time rational way—with a good tooth brush and a sensible tooth paste which cleans and polishes, and leaves your teeth what they should be—just clean.

On Sale at all Chemists.

China's Most Urgent Problem

By Judge Roger S. Greene, L.L.D.

CONCLUDING a short stay in China, on missionary business, which has permitted a little most delightful visit with my nephew in Peking, my wife and I are about to sail back to our home in Oakland, California. Mrs. Greene and I came from America to visit the field of the South China Mission, representing its Homeland Board of Trustees.

Most of our time has been spent in the southern part of Chihli province, in the neighborhood of Tainingfu, which, I suppose to be at the very heart of the famine stricken area. We came in by rail from Tientsin to Peking, thence on the Peking and Hankow Railway to Linningkuan; thence easterly by cart and carriage about 180 li (60 miles); and came out by carriage and cart to Hantan, 150 li; thence by the railway to Hankow, and thence down the Yangtze to this city.

Much of our on-rail and all of our off-rail travel being by day and the general surface of the country being plain, and as far as the eye could see, arable and cultivated, we were able to get a fair, although inexact, conception of what and how extensively food-crops had been sought and were falling. Considerable rain had recently come and at intervals was continuing, putting the ground in good condition for ploughing, which we saw in progress here and there, and the farmers were beginning to sow winter wheat, with excellent prospect of a normal field next summer.

But evidently there had been long and severe drought and the rain had arrived too late to save this season's crop. Principally from what we saw, but partly from what we were told, we judged that the main dependence of the population for subsistence, was wheat, sweet potatoes, millet, maize, beans, peanuts and buckwheat, and, during the summer and fall vegetables of various kinds.

Well, from what information and observation we were able to get, during our journeying and at our halting places where we lodged in towns over night, we found that last year the crops were meager and that this year wheat, millet, maize, beans and peanuts will prove almost a total and some of them a total failure over a broad extent of country, containing say 20,000,000 people, most of whom are destitute of means to buy food, if it were where they are, and who can only be reached by inadequate railways and waterways and over very bad roads, worse in many places than no roads at all. Present weather is favorable for road-making, but winter may be expected to set in with severity by the last of December and to go out in March and April, hardening the surface and it may be, facilitating transportation until the frost comes out of the ground and makes wheeling difficult or impossible.

Disheartening as the situation is, there is great and reasonable hope of coping with it successfully, if instant and sufficiently energetic means are taken to bring all resources available for alleviation into immediate and continuous co-operation. All men and measures must need be coordinated and put and kept at work together without friction, in kindly, sympathetic harmony. The starving people should be induced and employed to contribute efficiently to their own betterment. Transportation can be best facilitated by the creation of straight highways and the opening and straightening of waterways. Such improvement should be with a view to permanence, for the meteorological conditions of the afflicted area are such that a recurrence of dry and unproductive springs and summers should be anticipated.

The exigency is very pressing. The greatest desideratum is a man of proved and reputed capacity add trustworthy, instantly to be vested with ample power, and placed in absolute control. So many interests and lives are affected the matter is of world concern. But the burden is specially China's. All the civilized world, however, will pour in plenty of money and food-stuffs, to aid the man who can be trusted and is empowered to administer and distribute them.

Thousands, and quite likely millions, of human lives are, within the next few months to be sacrificed, unless relief is at once organized and at work to save them. Christian missions among the famishing men, women and children can each do and should do something efficient for local relief; but the main business must have the Republic of China behind it. It is up to the Chinese government to call a man to head and organize and manage the elements of relief, which already are quickly available, or await eagerly the call of a master mind, the touch of a master hand.

Has China the man? If not he can be found elsewhere; possibly in America. He should not only be capable of grasping and handling so great and grave a situation masterfully and sympathetically; so trustworthy and of such world-wide fame that all contributors will feel that their contributions will be faithfully and economically made use of, but so disconnected from the political aims and aspirations of China's statesmen and politicians, that he will be free from political embarrassment and have their cordial co-operation without distinction.

Correspondence

PROF. SERVISS AND THE BIBLE

Dear Sir:—In your issue of Friday, October 8, there is an article by Garrett P. Serviss who in his remarks about the Bible treats it as history compiled with a theological bias of a remarkable people and mingled with philosophical speculation, mythology, romance and poetry.

He thus easily dismisses the Bible while he apparently allows some standing to Jesus who so unhesitatingly stands or falls with the Bible. This is Christ's opinion of the Bible:

(1) The Scriptures cannot be broken.—Jno. 10-35.

(2) Think not that I am come to destroy the law and the prophets. I came not to destroy but to fulfil. For verily I say unto you not one jot or one tittle shall pass away from the law till all be fulfilled.—Mat. 5, 17-18.

(3) "It is written." Three times Jesus used Scripture to answer the tempter.

(4) Abraham rejoiced to see my day. He saw it and was glad.—Jno. 8-58.

(5) Before Abraham was, I am.—Jno. 8-58.

(6) And beginning at Moses and all the prophets he expounded unto them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself.—Lu. 24-27.

It was easy to prove how inconveniently Christ has put himself upon record as standing for the authenticity of Adam and Eve, Abraham, Moses, Jonah and the disputed portions of the Bible.

"O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken."—Lu. 24-25.

Yours sincerely

B. SUSTEES.

A THOUGHTFUL TAILOR

A Japanese tailor has had a novel sign board painted:

LADIES CAN HAVE FITS IN MY NEW SHOP UPSTAIRS

HOW DID HE DO IT?

The local papers state that "Sleep on Wild Night was successful."

I have heard that sleep after a wild night is sometimes successful in winning calm, but—Sleep on a Wild Night!

A FUTURE FASHION

Ladies' costumes were the subject of discussion, and it was not how they should be worn, but how high the skirt should be held on a wet day?

The youngest bachelor suggested it should be held just over two feet. Tee Hee!

DISMAY IS RIGHT

There was a young lady named Banker, Who slept while the ship was at anchor. She awoke in dismay When she heard the mate say, "Now hoist up the top sheet and spanker."

A CHINESE IDEA OF COCKNEY

The Cockney language is a study in itself. To appreciate its beauty a foreigner will have to prolong his stay in this city, but the reward is well worth having. The lingo is neither an outlandish importation nor a newfangled invention. It is simply the indigenous product simplified, although in the process of simplification the original has become partially corrupted. The study is interesting, because it shows the extent in which the English language has been, and also may be, developed.

It is a common complaint among the Americans that the popular "English English" or the English which is spoken in England, is not forcible enough owing to the lack of inadequate slang. In some respects this contention appears to be well grounded, for most things being equal, the "American English" or American slang are, perhaps, more expressive. For example "are you through?" is better than "have you finished?" Or "Rubber Neck" is superior to "Nosey Parker."

But such deficiency seems to be made up by the incorporation of the Cockney English. When an American wants to emphasize a statement, his net slang is "You bet." This is equivalent to the Londoner's "Rather." But that is not so expressive as the Cockney's "Not 'arf." For example, if the question is "Has So-and-so not altered?" The Cockney's "Not 'arf" (not half, but whole) is certainly more expressive than "Rather" or even "You bet."

Besides, the Cockney lingo is more hearty since it is less formal. When an American meets a friend his conversation begins with "Say," and a Londoner "Hello, old chap." But the Cockney pitches right in with "Oi, Bill." The first is decidedly staid in its advance; the second is slightly better. But the last is the heartiest, the "Oi" affording considerable latitude for muscular tension and lung expansion. Try it. Ye of the sceptical mind.

THE BUSY BEE BEATEN

The following is the usual experience of even a moderate organizer in accompanying the Psalms: He plays with two hands and two feet, generally in contrary motion, has to fill out the harmonies and possibly add little solo passages, must follow the words of each verse to keep the proper pointing, and at the same time must be reading the words some distance in advance so as to prepare steps to suit the expression that will then be required. A foot or a hand must be set free at any moment to change steps. He may be transposing all the time, and in addition, when something suddenly goes wrong with the organ has to use all his wits to make it sound as if there was nothing wrong.

STARTING EARLY

"Mother," said little Eva on the way from church, "babies aren't so good as they used to be, are they?" "Whatever makes you think that?" replied the mother. "Well little Willie can't talk yet, and he's nearly two, but Job could talk when he was a baby."

"Where does it tell you that, dear?" asked the mother. "Don't you remember the lesson this morning, mother? It said that Job cursed the day he was born."

The Soviet Domestic Program

By HENRY G. ALSBERG (The Nation)

What part of the soviet program has then been carried out? Despite the pressure of war, I should say on the whole, that the greater part of its socialist program has been at any rate sketched in. And remember, in this connection, that the marvel remains for all of us that even this "blocking in" has been accomplished with civil war and several foreign wars and a deadly blockade to occupy public attention. The middle class has been pretty well abolished—at least the old middle and upper classes. A true democracy of material condition, even if it is one of poverty, has been enforced. There are no great differences in dress or standards of living. Everybody is always more or less shabby; everybody always more or less hungry. Chicherin wears a baggy old suit, mercifully of a neutral snuff color; but some of the clerks in the Foreign Office far outshine their chief in their appearance. As to the democracy of food, that strikes me a bit nearer the belt-line. But if commissars can survive on a mess of soggy macaroni, we visitors, who get a much better pyok, should manage to do likewise. I think this matter of a common standard of living is not to be exaggerated. It makes for true brotherhood. And there exists here a real contempt for those who lay such a terrific emphasis on externals.

One hears, of course, everywhere of the establishment of a new middle class—that of the soviet officials. There are said to be more than 400,000 of them in the country. Some of them may be seen, truly, going off to the country over Sunday, or riding about in rather shabby cabs drawn by soviet horses. On the other hand, as far as wealth and luxury go among the higher officials, I can honestly say that I have as yet seen none of it, and I have visited in the homes of some of them. Naturally, with ability and willingness to accomplish things, comes authority in the community. That kind of a bourgeoisie is gradually being formed. How any state is to escape such a governing class, based on hard work, I find it difficult to see.

In the matter of nationalization, the revolutionary government has been fairly successful. Practically all the factories, transportation systems, food-getting, and food-producing systems, the health protection and educational systems have been taken over by the state. It does not change the fact to say that most of these systems at the present time are functioning inadequately, and that the food-distributing system is being supplemented by "bagmen," or Mishoshchik, and pretty speculators. I think these things will only be temporary, and will be improved as the government machinery is perfected when the pressure of war is over. Certainly in some directions, especially in the matter of health protection, for mothers, infants, and children, and in the matter of education, the Soviet Government has gone far beyond all possible expectations.

Extreme centralization may account for a good deal of inefficiency. At any rate one hears that complaint on all sides, from the anarchists, the social-revolutionaries, both left and right, and the Mensheviks and bourgeois. Doubtless the tendency has been fostered by circumstance rather than by conscious will. During 1917 and the beginning of 1918 the great drop in the productivity of Russian factories occurred, and gradual disintegration of all industry was threatened. Only a strong central power has been able or could have been able to pull Russia's economic life together once more. Unity of management, government by single men as heads of great departments, was the outcome of necessity. Sverdlov, Vice-Commissar of transport, intimated as much to me when I spoke to him on the trip we made down the Volga. Perhaps the present government has gone too far in the subordination of collateral and semi-independent institutions, the trade unions and the co-operatives, to the central authority. Also it must be admitted that the soviet system, whatever it may appear to be formally, is not nearly so democratic in the manner of its election as our Congress—although I far prefer the present Central Executive Committee of the Soviets, however procured, to our conglomeration of right honorables in Washington. But again, the answer must be the same. Necessity, danger to the very existence of the state, have forced the Russians to create this dictatorship.

To sum up, I believe that with the destruction of classes and of capital, with the creation of a democratic and almost universal standard of living, with the formation of a real "serving" bureaucracy and nationalization of industry, a practical beginning at "socialism" has been made.

Perhaps the one great failure in that regard has been the peasant. I have spent about a week in the country, travelling down the Volga

River, and have had considerable opportunity to speak with the country people. The peasant has not as yet been brought into the socialist scheme of things. He has received land, and in so far as he has received land, and in some cases the implements to work it with, he supports the government. But whatever Moscow may say about the ownership of the land, the peasant believes that it belongs to him. With the exception of a few experimental farms, no real attempt at communal agriculture has been made. The peasant is better off than he ever was before; he eats better and enjoys his local soviet. He walls horribly because the government comes down on him and levies for the benefit of the cities. The Russian peasant, as does the peasant everywhere throughout Europe, feels the city man to be his enemy, an enemy who takes but does not give anything in return. If he could get manufactured articles, ploughs, shoes, clothes, he says he would gladly give to the city folk. As things are now, he goes to town and has to trot from bureau to bureau to get a nail for which he must give a speculative price, while he himself only gets fixed rates of payment for his produce. He says he wants a "serious" government, one which can supply his needs. Meanwhile, the government takes little heed of his plaints, sends officials to his village and takes a goodly share of his surplus. Sometimes these officials come at inconvenient seasons, or take more than they should; and sometimes they meet with resistance, whereupon bloodshed ensues. But on the whole the Russian peasant in the districts I visited is doing very well. There seem to be some gubernias, especially in the North, where not enough wheat is produced. Here perhaps the situation is less favorable. But in a village of 5,000, such as I saw in the Samara gubernia, where there were seven thousand head of cattle, besides horses and goats, and where each family had about fifteen desiatins of land, to speak of hardship would be a bit ludicrous. I must say that Russia is the only country in Europe just now where the city man has the whip hand over the peasant—where the peasant is taxed to keep the city man alive until the latter can commence to produce again in a normal manner.

The fact remains, however, that no real attempt to socialize the land has as yet been made. In certain directions, by means of its power to monopolize peasant-manufactured supplies, the government can force the peasant to work in a more communal manner. But if farms were to be worked by great labor-saving machines in the western manner, the enormous population that now finds occupation on the land would be displaced. Until industrial work for this surplus can be found, it is quite useless to talk of introducing more socialist methods of agriculture. In the meantime the Russian socialistic state must be considered as having been imposed on a small bourgeois farming class. And in passing, it may as well be said that the wedge which Lenin tried to drive into the solid rural community by his distinction between the rich, and middle, and poor peasants has rather failed of its objective. I was in several communities where the middle peasant seemed to be the prevailing type, and the Kulak was still tolerated. At any rate, the destruction of the Kulak and middle peasant would only create a more numerous, homogeneous class of small peasants.

Much more to the point is the Soviet Government's policy of drawing the farmers closer to the city by giving them what manufactured articles are available—very little to be sure—by improving health conditions, by awakening the cultural life with theaters, music, education, and so forth. I have seen towns where they had put in electric light, where they had a moving picture theater, reading rooms, a library, adult schools. My friend Buxton was in another village where there was a theater and a theatrical company consisting of villagers, but stimulated by teachers sent from the city. Again the cursed war interferes with all advances in this direction. The war is a hideous blank wall against which, at the present moment, everything in Russia, that is precious dashes itself to bits.

I hear all the reactionary "I told you so's" re-echoing in America. But here one is quite frank in this matter. It is a question of life and death for the advanced proletariat of the cities to keep control of Russia's economic life. The peasants have their due, in perhaps greater proportion than the city folk, as far as creature comforts are concerned. But they shall not kill the social revolution, nor be the means by which Russia will relapse into capitalism so that the long and painful struggle upwards to socialism will have to be gone through with again. The leaders intend to keep the industrial life of Russia that is to be developed in the next fifty years, the heights already in the hands of the peasants, as socialized voluntarily, he will remain a sort of neutral outsider, while the city man works out the destiny of the world.

Salvation Army's Lost 'Drunks'

(New York Times)

What has prohibition done to the Salvation Army? The question, apparently facetious, is not so intended. Any one who is acquainted with the slogan, "A man may be down, but he's never out," knows that the Salvation Army has found its work among the ranks of the derelicts, including the drunken.

Colonel William Pearl, for eight years in Australia, who has just been promoted to the office of Commissioner of the Middle Territory of the United States, told in an interview the other day just how the Eighteenth Amendment had affected the activities of the organization. With apologies to the Salvation Army, the story may be boiled down to the slogan "A man may be down, but he's never drunk."

"The deserted appearance of our industrial homes," began Colonel Pearl, is the best proof that can be offered of the effectiveness of the prohibition amendment.

"For years the work of the Salvation Army was directed toward the regeneration of men and women who had stumbled somewhere and hadn't been able to pick themselves together again. Everybody knows that. We held street corner meetings in all sorts of out-of-the-way places, in slums, in alleyways, near wharves and piers, at any place in fact, where the man who was down and out chose to continue to be down and out. We'd talk, play the band, and do all the things that might in any way attract the mind of the sodden figures who gathered around because they had nothing else to do.

"After the street meeting would come the invitation to the indoor meeting, where we could get into more intimate contact with the men. Our indoor meeting places have changed; that is one of the changes that have come with the years. They used to be in stables, in back alleys, over Chinese laundries, any place, in fact, that we could get hold of.

"We'd talk to the men, give them a meal, a bed and a job in our industrial homes. Seventy-five percent of the men who worked in the industrial homes were confirmed drunkards. These centers were located in easily accessible sections of the city. They were the warehouses where old furniture, clothing and paper collected by the Army were mended and sorted.

"The wrecks of men would be assigned to the various departments in the workshops. There was a department for packing old paper, a department for assorting furniture, a department for mending clothes, a department for everything, in fact, that came out of a home or an office. Let me say in passing that this work of gathering old clothes and old furniture is exceedingly successful in this country. Americans continually change their clothes and their furniture. Our wagons are kept busy gathering the castoffs of families who have acquired a bit of riches and put them into new dining room or parlor suites.

"Among the vast army of confirmed drinkers were representatives of all trades and professions. We'd get doctors, lawyers, teachers, clockmakers, upholsterers, carpenters—all types, in fact, that could turn their hands toward making salable articles out of unsalable ones. A clockmaker who had lost caste in his vocation because of an overfondness for drink would come in and in a short time set all the clocks in the warehouses ticking. A carpenter would come in and mend all the furniture. The upholsterer would bolster up sunken seats and backs. In a measure, they were doing to the furniture what we were doing to them. The professional men would, as a rule, be assigned to the sorting and packing of papers. Out of this enterprise the Salvation Army, it was figured out, made an income of more than a million dollars a year. All of this money was put into greater expansion of personal service.

"In the year before the war we had about 19,000 men working in our industrial shops, 75 percent of whom attributed their status to drink. With the coming of war, these 19,000 were reduced to six or seven thousand. Some of them enlisted, some went into war factories, some were drafted. The work in the shops was almost entirely carried on by old men and cripples who had always come to the Salvation Army for work.

"The war ended. The prohibition law went into effect in July, 1919. Our warehouses, except for those whom we always will have with us, were soon deserted. The drunkards had disappeared.

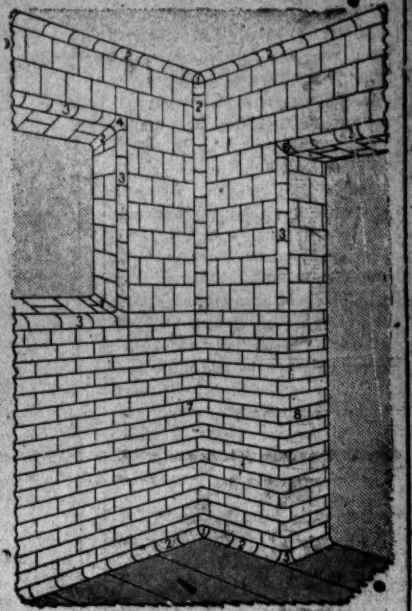

"Christmas came. That was the time when our halls were always filled to the last square inch with men who were picked up in the streets in all states of inebriety. But last Christmas we could hardly corral a handful. And the dead calm in our work—

Yen 60,000 Is Gone;
So Is Court Clerk

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Viadivostok, October 9.—A cashier of the Chancery Court has absconded with Yen 60,000.

Robberies and murders are increasing in number daily. This morning the telegraph office was raided and Yen 10,000 taken. A family of five was murdered and the house afterwards set on fire.

The financial position of the Government is becoming critical. The new rouble now stands at 1,700 per yen, almost equalling the Siberian rouble at the time of its withdrawal from currency.

Peking Tells Policy For Chinese Eastern Railway

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, October 6.—The Ministry of Communications declares that the Chinese Government had in view the following policies in connection with the Chinese Eastern Railway Agreement, signed on October 2 with Mr. Reinder, Manager of the Russo-Asiatic Bank in Peking:

(1) That China should obtain the right to participate actively in the control and operation of the Chinese Eastern Line, a right that she was never able to maintain under the former Russian regime.

(2) That Chinese nationals should be employed in both important and subordinate positions in the railway.

(3) That China should observe strict neutrality towards all Russian political parties.

(4) That no third Power shall be given any opportunity to share in the control and operation of the line; and

RAILWAY NEGOTIATIONS
(5) That the Chinese Government should take over the political sovereignty of the Railway Zone so as to be in a position to revise the original agreement with Russia as soon as an All-Russian Government is recognised and in a position to negotiate with China.

It was in pursuance of these policies and because the Government felt that the aims desired by China had been attained in the recent negotiations with the Russo-Asiatic Bank that Yeh Kung-cho, Minister of Communications was instructed to sign the Agreement of October 2. The terms of the agreement follow in seven clauses of the correctness of which, as to substance, I am assured by responsible officials at the Ministry of Communications:

(1) The Board of Directors of the Chinese Eastern Railway shall be composed of nine members in addition to the Director-General, five of these to be Russians and four to be Chinese. The Director-General, to be appointed by the Chinese Government, shall be Chairman of the Board of Directors and shall have the right to vote as any ordinary director. In the event of a tie vote the Director-General shall, furthermore, have the casting vote.

SEVEN DIRECTORS
(2) Seven members of the Board of Directors, including either the Director-General or one of the Co-Directors, shall constitute a quorum at board meetings.

(3) Besides the Director-General there shall be a Chinese and a Russian Co-Director.

(4) The former Resident Directorship and the other high posts, created provisionally, shall be abolished.

(5) There shall be a Chinese Assistant Director of the Railway Administration.

(6) The four departments of the railway, Accounts, Traffic, Rolling Stock and Construction, shall each have a Russian Chief and a Chinese Assistant Chief.

(7) Every main section of the railway line shall henceforth have a Chinese Assistant Chief, of Section; and the Board of Directors shall decide how and when these new posts are to be created.

The Ministry of Communications states further that notes additional and supplementary to the above agreement make the following provisions:

PLAN FOR FINANCE
(1) In accordance with Article XII of the Railway Agreement of 1896 the sum of 5,000,000 Kuping Tael should have been paid over to the Chinese Government on the opening of the Chinese Eastern Railway. This amount was never paid to China; and the Russo-Asiatic Bank now pledges itself to issue Chinese Eastern Railway bonds in favor of the Chinese Government to cover this amount plus accrued interest at six percent from the date of the opening of the railway. The bonds thus issued to the Chinese Government will have a par value of from 11,000,000 to 14,000,000 Kuping Tael the exact amount depending upon the date on which the railway was opened for traffic. In this connection the Chinese Government claims that the line was opened in 1903, while the bank states that the date of opening was in 1907. The question is now under discussion by representatives of the Government and the bank; and a compromise of the two conflicting views is regarded as the logical outcome.

(2) The bonds of the Chinese Eastern Railway issued to China under the above agreement will bear interest at five percent from January 1, 1921, and are repayable either through a railway bond emission, fund or when the Chinese Government itself buys over the entire financial and administrative control of the railway.

(3) The operation of the railway is to be conducted on a strictly commercial basis; and China is entitled to prohibit interference by any political party or parties.

(4) The railway company is to give employment to Chinese and Russians on an equal footing and without favor to either nationality.

(5) There is to be a committee of railway inspection composed of five members, two of whom may be nominated by China. This committee shall elect the Inspector-General of the Line, who must be a Chinese.

(6) The Russo-Asiatic Bank assures the Chinese Government that it is a purely Russian limited company and that it has no connection, with any political party or parties in Russia.

STAND OF BANK
(7) The Russo-Asiatic Bank does not concern itself with matters of territorial and political sovereignty in the zone of the Chinese Eastern Railway; and, as far as the bank is concerned, the Chinese Government is entitled to take over in this zone the political sovereignty, with all the rights, privilege and duties attached to it, that was formerly exercised by the Russian Government in this territory.

Mr. C. C. Wang, Chinese delegate to the Inter-Allied Technical Board, in which capacity he has worked for many months in close co-operation with Colonel John F. Stevens, Head of the Inter-Allied Technical Board, informs me that the action of the Chinese Government in coming to some definite agreement with regard to the status and operation of the Chinese Eastern is in accord with the suggestions made by Colonel Stevens as early as this Spring. And General Horvach, the former Director-General of the railway, who has been in Peking watching the recent negotiations between the Russo-Asiatic Bank and the Ministry of Communications, has stated to officials of the American Legation that, in his opinion, Russia's interests are adequately protected by the agreement.

China derives from the agreement just signed a greater control of the administration and operation of the railway than she ever had before. She also obtains a definite financial interest in the railway through the bond payment, plus accrued interest, which was guaranteed but never made to her, under the terms of the old agreement of 1896. This interest is absolutely distinct from the Russo-Asiatic Bank, which, with accrued interest, now amounts to 5,100,000 Kuping Tael.
